DISGUSTS THEM.

Respectable Democrats Disown Their Organ's Campaign.

ONE WHO EXPRESSES HIMSELF

In this Morning's Intelligencer, Concedes that the Republican Record at the City Hall Deserves the Vote of Good Citizens—The Betting men Confident of Republican Success on Thursday—$1,000 put up.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

SIR:—Please allow me a small space in your paper to protest to the disgusting manner in which the Register is pretending to "show up" the alleged mismanagement and deficiency of the Republican party in this city. The Register has done, and is doing, more, day after day, to bring about dissensions and disruptions in our fast-decaying party in this city and county than any other agency in existence. The daily "jabs" in the form of communications from "Citizen," "Taxpayer," "Sixth Ward" (who just "chance" to be in the Sixth ward Saturday night), and other signatures of no value, sound and read as emanating from the same "persimmon soaked" cranium.

The citizens of our city, as a general rule, are intelligent enough to know that the charges made by the desperate Democratic organ—grinder on Market street and its "monks" are not, and cannot be, sustained by facts and figures. The prompt reply of the water board to an insulting inquiry is enough to convince any honest citizen, irrespective of politics, that our city is being properly managed. I have voted for Democrats in the past, but I have never made up my mind this time to vote for the mismanagement of good government and the Republican ticket.

SECOND WARD DEMOCRAT.

This from a Second Ward Democrat is the expression of one citizen, but there are hundreds of other Democrats who look with aversion and disgust upon the desperate and unwarrantable tactics indulged in by the Market street sheet, and although they may not go to the length of abandoning their party organization and voting for the Republican and good government candidate, as this particular Democrat announces he will do, still they must feel apathetic toward the candidates in whose interest (?) such methods are employed.

The water board libel, so promptly nailed by Secretary Schellhase, is but one instance of the desperation of the opposition's organ, and another was the equally cowardly insinuation that found a place in yesterday's issue, in which it was alleged that the Republicans are debauching the voters of the city. That claim is so utterly absurd as to excite amusement. While the Intelligencer will not enter into such reprehensible and unwarrantable arguments in support of the candidates of its party, it can be said that the Democratic party of Ohio county and the city of Wheeling is responsible for certain methods of catering to a certain class of voters, and has followed them in every campaign. On the other hand, the Republicans have discouraged such methods, and the party has been making this campaign solely on the very excellent record it has made during the past four years in the city hall. The opposition organ's recourse to such low methods as it has been employing during the past week is explained by the fact that it cannot attack the Republican record at the city hall, and it would divert the public's attention from the era of good government had under Republican auspices by repeated slanders and falsifications. Such a campaign cannot achieve its object; it will only result in daily accessions to the ranks of such citizens as "Second Ward Democrat."

"I happened to be in the Sixth ward Saturday night," is the opening phrase in a card in yesterday's Register, which is signed "Sixth Ward." Now a First ward man might "happen" to be in the Sixth ward, but when a Sixth ward man is in the Sixth ward, he doesn't "happen" there. If the card had been signed "Seventh Ward," it would have given the home ward of the man who "happened" to be in the Sixth ward, or at least of the man who asserts he "happened" to be there. As the card was written in the Register office, why was it necessary to address it to the editor of the paper?

On behalf of a prominent citizen, the Intelligencer announces that $500 will be wagered that Mayor Butts is elected at the municipal election next Thursday. Also, he will wager $400 to $500, that Clemans, for chief of police, will have at least 661 majority over Ritz, the Democratic candidate. This is the majority given Mayor Butts over Healy two years ago. All or part of the wagers can be arranged through the city editor of the Intelligencer, upon application.

From top to bottom the Republican ticket is one that commands respect and invites support from all citizens who desire a continuation of the present era of good government at the city hall. In the past four years, the Republican administration have brought the city government out of the wilderness of financial decrepitude into the promised land of good government, economically and capably administered. A vote for these men means a vote to continue that policy.

MUSICAL WHEELING.

The coming appearance in Wheeling of the Welsh singers from Wales is exciting much interest in musical Wheeling, and already a large audience is assured. The concert will be held at the Opera house next Monday evening, under the auspices of the Woman's Musical club. That the entertainment will be a pleasing one the reputation of the singers assures. Says an exchange: "That Wales overflows with melody has been repeatedly proved by the bands of Welsh artists which have from year to year visited this country on concert tours, but never more emphatically than by Prof. John Beynon's company of ten prize singers, who appeared in Music hall last evening in a choice programme of classic and popular music, vocal and instrumental. The audience that greeted the singers was worthy of the occasion. Every seat in the hall was occupied and the audience was an appreciative one."

Two Hundred Voices.

Two hundred school children will appear in the "Mystic Midgets" next Thursday and Friday nights, January 26 and 27, at the Opera House. The cantata has won high praise in other cities, being greeted by the crowds of houses and enthusiastic audiences, and there is no doubt from the sale of tickets here that the children will be greeted by crowded houses. With the effect of a full orchestra, the whole affair will be pleasing. The white-robed fairies under the calcium lights will bring a veritable fairyland before the eyes of the audience. The mischievous gnomes will keep the audience roaring with laughter.

A New Industry.

A new industry is to be started in this city by the Wheeling Window Blind Company, to manufacture a new patented steel flexible shutter and blind, to be used inside and outside. It is useful, durable and ornamental for dwellings, stores, schools, hotels and all buildings; it takes the place of awnings; when it rains the blinds can be lowered to the bottom of the window and keeps the rain out without closing the window. Bed-rooms can be ventilated summer and winter; they can be closed to make a room light or dark; they can be painted any color to suit any building; they can be used on outside of circular windows, where no other shutters can be used; they are fire proof. Architects and contractors say there is nothing to equal it in the United States, and the patent office confirms them. They can be made so cheap as to come into general use. The company intend to work in Hancock, Brooke, Ohio, Marshall and Belmont counties, and will sell two hundred shares at five dollars per share to working men, but no person is to have more than two shares. The company intends to sell a few shares to the citizens of each county, the whole number not to exceed 200.

Mrs. R. V. Arkle Dead.

Yesterday afternoon, at the family home on Jacob street, in the Eighth ward, occurred the death of Mrs. Barbara Arkle, relict of the late Robert V. Arkle, in the fifty-fourth year of her age, after a brief illness. Mrs. Arkle was well known in South Wheeling, where, since her husband's death she has conducted the business he had established. She was respected by a large circle of friends and acquaintances who will grieve to learn of her untimely demise. She leaves five children—Joseph, who is in business on the South Side; Harry V., of the editorial force of the Register; Robert, Edward and Elizabeth.

Henry Magers Dead.

Henry Magers, who for a number of years faithfully served as night foreman for Burns & Church, died yesterday at his home on the South Side, after a lingering illness of nearly a year's duration. Mr. Magers was about twenty-three years of age, and was liked by all who knew him. Night work and exposure to weather brought on the dreaded consumption, which finally caused his demise. The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, interment at Peninsula cemetery.

Mrs. W. J. Johnston Dead.

Mrs. Mary Adela Johnston, wife of Mr. W. J. Johnston, died early yesterday morning at the family home, 755 Market street, after a short illness. Relatives of the deceased from other places arrived before her death. The funeral will occur from the family home to-morrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

BRIEF MENTIONINGS.

Events in and About the City Given in a Nutshell.

Council meets to-night in regular session.

Grand Opera House to-night—"A Country Merchant."

William Hassall, a native of England, became a naturalized citizen yesterday.

Criminal court met yesterday morning and adjourned until Wednesday morning.

The creek mill of the Whitaker Iron Works will resume next Monday after a stop of several days.

Last night Officer Holmes arrested an East End boy named Ponner, charged with complicity in the theft of iron pipe.

Assistant Janitor George W. Johnson, of the county building learned yesterday of the death of his brother, Jacob Johnson, at Parkersburg.

Council real estate committee met last evening and recommended for payment bills aggregating $96 09. The committee also acted favorably upon the bill for the new street signs.

City Clerk Watkins and several assistants were busy yesterday putting up the ballot boxes, ballots, etc., for each of the thirty-two precincts of the city, for use in Thursday's election.

Ex-Councilman William H. Haller is very ill at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Frank Worley, at Kirkwood, but hopes are entertained that he will recover. His many friends will entertain the same hope.

Yesterday, County Engineer Robert Hazlett placed on view in the office of the board of commissioners, county building, the new map of the city, showing the new district and precinct lines as fixed by the board last year.

Yesterday, in the circuit court, Judge Herve, in the cases of E. M. Lewis vs. the Bank of the Ohio Valley; J. W. Burchinal vs. the Bank of the Ohio Valley; and Commercial Bank vs. J. F. Thompson, it was stated that the matters at issue had been settled out of court.

Contributors to the woman's paper, to be issued by the women of Wheeling for the benefit of the Day Nursery, desire that all who have been invited to contribute to hand in their manuscript to the editor-in-chief, Mrs. R. J. Reed, as early as possible, and not later than February 15.

The council committee on petitions and remonstrances met last night, and recommended that a license be granted to Oscar Gardner at 131 Market street, being a transfer from John Duffy, and that a license be granted to Fieh & Quinlan at 29 Eighteenth street, a transfer from Dan Guth.

The ladies of the German Pioneer Society have decided to attend the funeral of Mrs. C. W. Seabright in a body. The funeral takes place this morning at 8:30 from the family residence. At St. Joseph's cathedral a requiem mass will be celebrated after which the body will be interred at Mt. Zion's cemetery.

The King's Daughters of the United Presbyterian church will give "Mrs. Jarley's Waxworks" on Friday evening, at the church, to be followed by the serving of refreshments. Readers of Dickens' "Old Curiosity Shop" will be delighted to have the opportunity of seeing this dramatic adaptation from the great English novelist's powerful book. That the entertainment will be worth witnessing can be realized when it is known that the young people taking part are those who made such a striking success of "The Deedrick Skule" last winter.

Bridgeport Council.

At a special meeting of the Bridgeport council last night, the proposition of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company to pay the town $1,600 to open up a new street through the Koehnline property, provided Sixth street would be abandoned, was ratified.

An order was passed providing for the advertising for bids for $75,000 worth of bonds.

Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup has been sold for over fifty years and is still the most popular medicine for throat and lung trouble.
